CRITICAL THINKING · THE PRICE TEST

Every shirt is the same shirt — only the price and the story change, and that is the whole task. The $0 row is the quiet one: it is free and it wastes nothing, yet many students still say no, which opens the real question of why we want new things. The $45 row usually divides a class hardest. When a group rejects it, ask whether they are rejecting the price or the idea. When a group chooses it, ask if they would pay that every month. There is no correct column.

02 TEACHER GUIDE

BEFORE CLASS

AIM

Talk about why clothes are so cheap, and give a simple opinion with a reason.

LENGTH

45–60 minutes.

READING SUPPORT

Read the article in pairs, one paragraph each. The five bold words are the five vocabulary words — point this out before students start.

WATCH FOR

Last is a verb here, not “final” — expect confusion and show both. Second-hand takes the hyphen. Students often say “~~it is more cheap~~” — model cheaper.

EXTENSION

Ask students to check the label in the clothes they are wearing. Which countries?

FOLLOW-UP QUESTIONS

- How long should a T-shirt last?
- Can you repair clothes? Who taught you?
- Is cheap clothing good for people with little money?

IF THE TALK STOPS

Give one minute of silent thinking time and let students write two words first. At this level the ideas are there before the sentences are.

04 MODEL WRITING

SAMPLE ANSWER

I think it is better to have a few good clothes. Cheap shirts look nice in the shop, but the quality is often low. My last cheap jacket did not last one winter, so I bought another one. That is not really cheap.

Good clothes cost more, but I wear them for years. I also like second-hand shops, because the clothes are cheap and nothing new is made. And I want to know the name of the factory, not only the brand. So I buy less, but I buy better.
