CRITICAL THINKING · WAS IT WORTH IT?

No line has a correct answer, and the FIVE YEARS LATER column is the lesson. The metro is the easy yes and the empty stadium the easy no, so the argument lives in the last two. The debt and the memory are deliberately the same question asked twice: one is a number, one is not, and students have to weigh them against each other anyway. If a group marks everything WORTH IT, ask who is still paying. If a group marks everything NOT, ask what their own city would lose by never trying.

02 TEACHER GUIDE

BEFORE CLASS

AIM

Talk about what a big sporting event costs and gives, and give an opinion with a reason.

LENGTH

45–60 minutes.

READING SUPPORT

Read the article in pairs, one paragraph each. The five bold words are the five vocabulary words — point this out before students start.

WATCH FOR

Host is a verb here, not a person at a party — show both. Proud takes of: proud of my city. Students often say “I am agree” — model I agree.

EXTENSION

In pairs, name one big event your own country hosted. What is left from it today?

03 DISCUSSION NOTES

GUIDE THE TALK

STUDENTS MAY MENTION

flags · watching with family · crying · penalties · taxes · new roads · tickets · national pride

SENTENCE FRAMES

- I watch the World Cup with...
- It is / is not worth the money, because...
- In my country, people feel...

FOLLOW-UP QUESTIONS

- Where were you for a famous match?
- Is a hospital better than a stadium? Always?
- Can a country be proud and also angry about the cost?

IF THE TALK STOPS

Give one minute of silent thinking time and let students write two words first. At this level the ideas are there before the sentences are.

04 MODEL WRITING

SAMPLE ANSWER

I think a country can host the World Cup, but it must be careful. The cost is very high, and ordinary people pay it for many years. A big new stadium is not useful if it is empty after the final.

But the World Cup also gives something. The fans are happy, the country feels proud, and people remember one night for the rest of their life. So I think yes, but only if the new trains and buildings are useful after the last game.
